

The Bathroom Water Mission

An illustrated storybook preview • Ages 5–9

Meet the Team

'I'm Ranger Raccoon, water detective!' 'And I'm Steven,' said the robot. 'We ask questions, follow evidence, and get grown-ups when something is unsafe.' A rubber duck squeaked in the bathtub.

Water in the Bathroom

'Water helps us wash hands, brush teeth, shower and bathe,' Ranger said. 'It reaches our faucets through pipes,' Steven explained. 'How clear it looks doesn't tell us everything about drinking-water safety.'

What's in Water?

'Water can contain minerals and disinfectants, and sometimes unwanted substances,' Steven said. 'If adults have concerns, they can check water reports or arrange suitable tests.'

Bath Time Rules

'Bath time is fun!' Ranger said. 'And young children need a grown-up watching,' Steven added. 'Ask an adult to check the temperature, and keep electrical devices away from water.'

What's That Stain?

Ranger spotted a rusty-colored mark by the faucet. 'A stain can have different causes,' Steven explained. 'It doesn't prove the water is unsafe. Tell an adult so they can investigate.'

Brushing Teeth

'Use water your family knows is safe for drinking,' Ranger said. 'And turn off the faucet while brushing!' Steven held up a smiling toothbrush.

Junior Bathroom Guardian

Ranger and Steven cheered: 'Tell an adult about leaks. Keep electronics away from water. Ask about strange stains. Practice safe water habits!' The rubber duck squeaked its approval.
